

Kamran Mousavi Wins ADA Appreciation Award

Robin Long
ERI Student Service Coordinator

Congratulations to Kamran Mousavi, ERI undergraduate research assistant, for receiving Northern Arizona University's first Americans with Disabilities Act Appreciation Award. The award is given to an NAU faculty, staff or student who has made an outstanding contribution to the disability community and who fosters a campus climate that values individuals with disabilities. Since he was hired a year ago, Kamran (who is deaf) has taught sign language classes to his fellow students, presented a deaf awareness workshop, and worked hard to create a deaf-friendly work environment at the ERI. Kamran was acknowledged for his efforts at the second annual Diversity and Equity Awards Dinner held on March 29, at the du Bois Center. After receiving the award, he had his picture taken with Northern Arizona University President Dr. John Haeger and Mr. Ernie Calderon from the Arizona Board of Regents. Kamran is a junior majoring in liberal studies with a parks and recreation management emphasis.

Left to right: Northern Arizona University President Dr. John Haeger, NAU Affirmative Action Director Priscilla Mills, ERI Undergraduate Researcher Kamran Mousavi, Mr. Ernie Calderon from the Arizona Board of Regents at the awards ceremony and dinner.